

Brief description on how the design is relevant to the target demographic:

The design offers a simple and intuitive way to manage stress, which is user-friendly for workers and students who might seek efficiency when finding “solutions.” By using quick surveys, along with extracted health data, the app can provide personalized wellness recommendations for them.